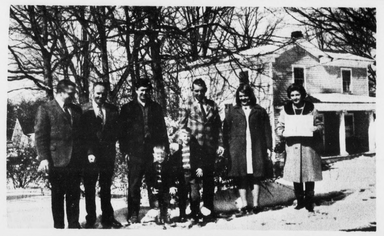
Retail Sales In Appomattox 12 1/2 Million $ In 1970



Donors Talk About 'Surprise Snow'

Unless there's a repeat of Friday's nine-inch snow, you won't have to plow through the white drifts to give blood on Tuesday, April 6. These many-time donors (above) watched young Keith Mann, 6, and his brother Tony, 3 pitch snowballs Saturday as they talked about the need for 106 donors to fulfill the county quota at Liberty Baptist Church, 12 noon to 6 p.m. (From left: Philip Scruggs, 19 pint donor; William Mann, 23 pints; Nelson Mann, 18 pints; Ben Wheeler, 12 pints; Rose Evans, 9 pints. Market Analysis Made By VPI

"There is considerable opportunity for expansion of retail sales in Appomattox," says Don L. Long, Extension Specialist, Consumer Economics, the author of "Retail Market Analysis, Appomattox, Virginia", a booklet just released by the Cooperative Extension Service, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Long reports that retail sales, as measured by the state sales tax were 12 1/2 million dollars in 1970. "In addition, there were sales of gasoline, automobiles, prescription drugs and, of course, services. Wholesale sales also were excluded from this figure," explains Long in the analysis.

Long says that Appomattox has the facilities to service much of the economic activity for its trade area. However, he adds, there are indications of a few areas "which if expanded or added to might stimulate total economic growth for the town as well as for those merchants already situated in Appomattox."

Among those listed are a variety store, a furniture store, an ABC store, additional specialty clothing stores and additional auto dealerships.

"In addition" he says, "from a total economic development point of view, it is interesting to note the absence of national or regional chain store operations. The presence of such quite possibly could be a potent attraction to attract more persons to Appomattox for regular shopping."

The study was done at the request of various members of the business community of Appomattox who contacted J. A. Smith, Extension Agent, Agriculture, concerning the possibility of a "study" of basic information and problems relating to the retailing community.

Mr. Smith, in turn, contacted Extension Marketing Specialists of the Dept. of Agricultural Economics, VPI. The report summarizes the results of the ensuing work.

Special Workshop To Aid Hard-Of-Hearing

A special hearing workshop designed to aid the hard-of-hearing residents of Lynchburg and the surrounding areas will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 6 and 7th at the Beltone Office, 406 Allied Arts Building, Lynchburg, Va., according to Carl E. McCurdy of Beltone Hearing Aid Center, Medical Arts Building, Roanoke Va., the local authorized dealer for Beltone Electronics Corporation. Chicago - based Beltone is world leader in hearing aids and electronic hearing test instruments.

Mr. McCurdy said the workshop will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday and is designed for the convenience of local citizens who have, or who suspect they have, hearing problems, and for persons who are due to have their annual hearing tests.

Also, hearing aid users can have their instruments inspected, cleaned and minor repairs performed without cost. Persons who wear hearing aids will be able to purchase a set of batteries at half price, Mr. McCurdy added.

Interest Cut For Savings

Effective April 1, 1971, interest paid on Savings Pass Book Accounts at Farmers National Bank, Fidelity National Bank and the Pamplin Branch, First National Bank of Farmville, will be four percent, compounded quarterly. This is a reduction of one-half percent, from the previous rate of four and one-half percent on Pass Book Savings.

The decrease has been brought about, bankers say, as a result of the recent decreases in the prime interest and mortgage rates that are being charged to borrowers.

These local rate decreases are in line with the date for like interest drops at banks throughout Virginia and the nation, according to announcement in other media last week.

Glee Club To Present Park Concert
